INTRODUCING INDIGENOUS AUSTRALIA (ABST1000)

This unit offers a broad introduction to the history and cultures of Indigenous Australia, from an Indigenous standpoint. This unit presents as a thought-provoking and challenging cultural experience of Indigenous Australian history, culture and worldview and, as such, provides a solid theoretical foundation for anyone wishing to pursue further Indigenous studies.

AUSTRALIAN AND GLOBAL SOCIETIES (SOC1000)

This is an exciting and innovative unit about Australian life and global societies. It also provides new and engaging ways to develop your understanding of the deep social relationships that bind us together and which, at the same time, underlie the expression of conflict and inequality. In the unit we focus on key areas of social life such as family, gender and sexuality, religion, age, crime, media, work, globalisation and social policy.

AUSTRALIAN POLITICS IN GLOBAL CONTEXT (POIR1010)

In this unit, we introduce Australian politics through the lens of debates about globalisation and, in so doing, we examine key Australian political institutions, ideologies and contemporary issues. What is globalisation and to what extent has it blurred the boundaries between domestic and foreign policy issues?

What is the nature of Australia's key political institutions such as the Constitution, the High Court, Federalism and Parliament?

INTRODUCTION TO MEDIA AND MASS COMMUNICATIONS (MMCC1040)

This unit addresses the major transformations and continuities in the Australian and global media and communications environment. Interrogating the role of media in everyday life, in both local and global contexts, the unit offers a vital introduction to media and communications studies.

At Macquarie, we have discovered the human equation for success. By knocking down the walls between departments, and uniting the powerhouses of research and industry, human collaboration can flourish. This is the exponential power of our collective, where potential is multiplied by a campus and curriculum designed to foster collaboration for the benefit of everyone. Because we believe when we all work together, we multiply our ability to achieve remarkable things.
